

The MetroTones

The old songs
The memorable songs!

Frank O'Hara

As a kid in Northern Ontario in the 1930s and 1940s, Frank loved to sing the great hits of that era. Today, he's retired, but still warbling his favourite Jazz, Swing, and Big Band melodies. True to his heritage, he also enjoys Irish traditional songs, such as Danny Boy and The Rose of Tralee.

Anita Gaide

Anita began her musical education as a child with piano and organ lessons in Toronto. Her talent and dedication took her to graduate training in Paris, France. Today, she is an accomplished musician who displays her talent and virtuosity in many venues, including as a church organist, music teacher, and Lutheran Minister.

Andrew Zarins

After retiring from his first career as a musician (clarinetist) with the Canadian Forces Andrew returned to school, where he earned a degree in computer science. Today, he is an IT professional with a major international company. In his spare time, however, he likes to "keep his lips in shape" with The MetroTones.

For a taste of the MetroTones in action go to www.ohara.com/MetroTones.wma

Want to book us for a performance? Email: frank@ohara.com. (You can afford it.)